

Laura Loh - Full Biography

Laura Loh is a Hampshire, UK-based singer-songwriter, multi-instrumentalist, and producer with a background in classical and jazz music and an inclination towards alt-pop and alt-folk.

Being born into a musical family, she classically trained in singing, piano, and violin at a young age. At 13, she picked up a guitar and started writing songs.

Her official debut came in the form of her EP, Sunrise, in 2020; two standout songs were swiftly selected for the BBC introducing Tracks of the Day List.

Away from the airwaves, Loh has played Weyfest, Westival and ValeFest, and graced Abbey Road studios with her vocals.

2022 single "Morning Light," an optimistic blend of alt-pop and folk, was the start of a new era for Loh; the track inspired a shift in genre, style and boldness to produce her own soulfully infused sound.

She ventured into new pop territory with her self-produced mental health advocacy single "Closer."

Loh picked up the pace with her 80s inspired track "Running," which debuted on BBC Introducing Berkshire.

Her latest single "Cold Morning" (co-produced with MUNBOI) is out 28th April.
